WORD OF THE WEEK

Word of the Week!

Can you answer the riddle?

Which word is the odd one out?

stun, ton, evil, letter, mood, bad, snap, straw?

Letter – all the rest make another word when spelled backwards

(nuts, not, live, doom, dab, pans, warts)

Word of the Week!

Do you know this word?

Talk to the person next to you.

How would you explain to them what this word means?

Biased

Word of the Week!

Copy down the word and its definition:

Biased: (adjective) showing an unreasonable like or dislike for someone or something based on personal opinions.

Biased: (adjective) showing an unreasonable like or dislike for someone or something based on personal opinions.

See it in Action:

It is important to recognise when information is biased, because a biased source presents facts or opinions in a way that unfairly favours one opinion over another. For example, a news article that only includes one side of an argument may lead readers to form an incomplete understanding of the issue. By comparing multiple reliable sources people can make more balanced and informed decisions.

Biased: (adjective) showing an unreasonable like or dislike for someone or something based on personal opinions.

Use it:

Write your own sentence using the word 'biased'.
(bias/unbiased)

Be prepared to share!

Biased: (adjective) showing an unreasonable like or dislike for someone or something based on personal opinions.

TPS: Where in the school…?

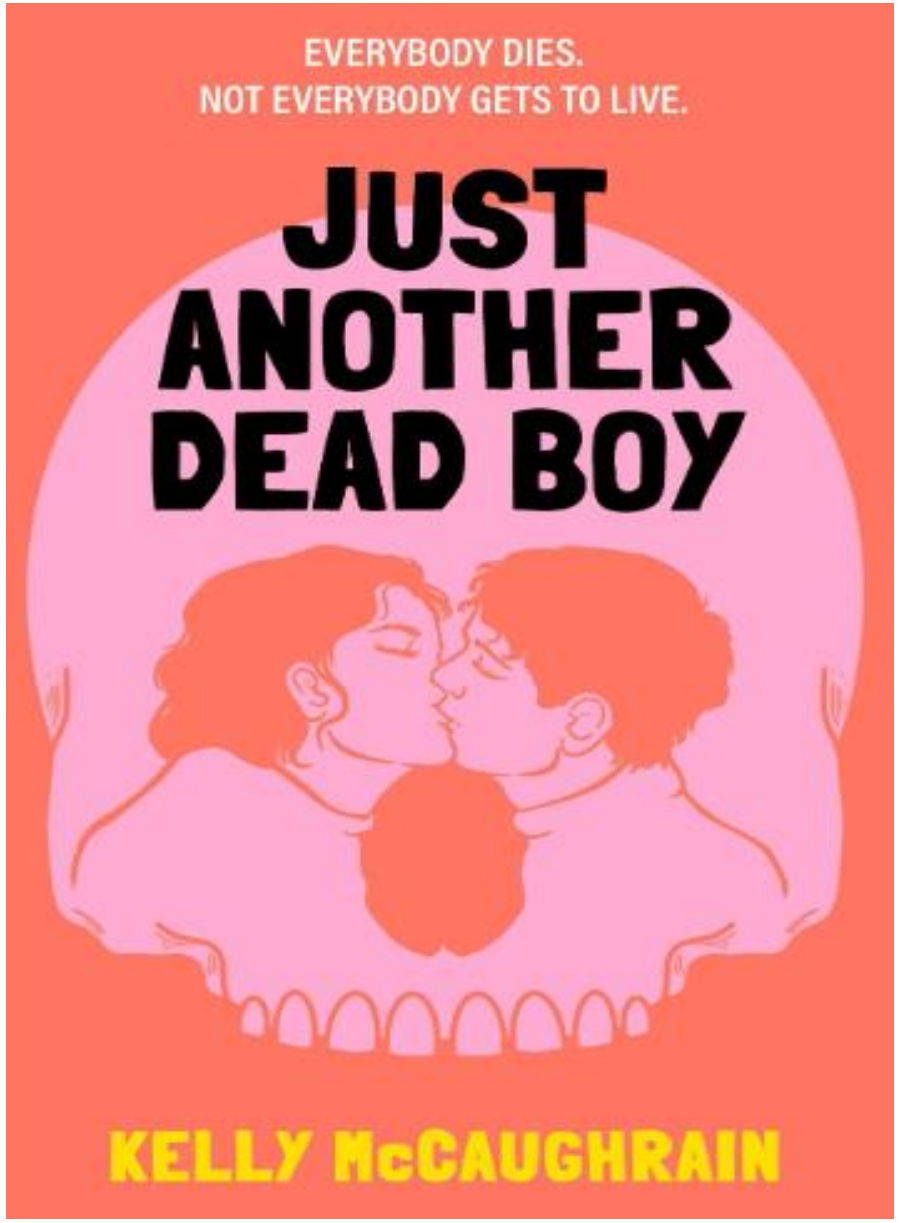

Which subjects might use the word ‘biased’?
Where might you need to use it in an answer to a question?

Stuck? Some ideas!

History – is a historical source biased?

Science – how can we make sure the data from an experiment is not biased?

Book Recommendation

JUST ANOTHER DEAD BOY

A high-stakes speculative romance by a multiple award-winning, Carnegie-shortlisted author:

THE ONLY RULE – DON'T FALL IN LOVE!

In this world, everyone knows their death date. If you're rich, you can check into a resort to have the greatest final few weeks of your life, in five-star luxury.

Regan works at one of these resorts as a "Juliet". Her next client is Jude, who has a week to live. Regan's job is simple: make Jude feel as though he has found true love before he dies.

But when a fake romance starts to become something else, can they take on Fate together – before Jude's death date catches up with them?

A twisty romance in a dystopian world where everyone knows their death date. It's a crazy premise that works brilliantly and ends up being both insightful and touching.

This week you are voting on...
Does everyone get what consent means?
VOTESFORSCHOOLS

1 Why are we talking about this?

Consent means freely agreeing to do something.
It's about saying "yes" because you genuinely want to.
There is no consent if someone is being pressured,
feels scared, or if they are unsure in any way.

1 Why are we talking about this?

It's vital everyone understands consent. But do you think everyone does?

Later you'll be voting Yes or No to: "Does everyone get what consent means?"

2 Is this consent?

Class activity (6-8 mins)

Let's consider some scenarios.
For each, decide if there is consent.
Show your response with a hand up if there is consent.

Do you all think the same for each?
As a class, discuss the scenario and why you might not agree whether there is consent or not.

2 Is this consent?

Leah's boyfriend keeps asking to see her phone. She says no a few times, then hands it over to make him stop.

2 Is this consent?

Kai asks Remi, “Do you want to go somewhere quieter?” Remi shrugs and says nothing.

2 Is this consent?

Two people agreed to be a couple at a party. The next day, one says they're not feeling it anymore. The other says, "But you said yes".

2 Is this consent?

Ryan screenshots a private chat with a girl and shares it with his mates for a laugh.

2 Is this consent?

Class extension (3-5 mins)
People have different lines of what they are okay with. How does this affect how we understand consent?

2 Is this consent?

A reminder before we move on:
If you have any concerns about these scenarios or the topic in general, you can always talk to a safe adult. They are there to listen to your worries whenever you are ready to share.

3 Do you get it?

Later you'll be voting Yes or No to: "Does everyone get what consent means?"

Individual activity (3-5 mins)
Let's read some Yes and No opinions linked to today's VoteTopic question. How much do you agree with what is being said? You can keep your response to yourself if you prefer.

3 Do you get it?

We've been taught this topic loads.

Yes, but knowing it and doing it are different.

3 Do you get it?

A reminder that the question today is:
"Does everyone get what consent means?"
If the response is not 100% Yes, we have work to do.

Class extension (3-5 mins)
If there are people who do not get what consent means, what can we do?

Now's your chance to vote Yes or No on: "Does everyone get what consent means?"

We've been taught this topic loads.

Yes, but knowing it and doing it are different.

Everyone knows the definition.

Some people think if you don't say no it means yes.

Knowing a definition isn't the same as understanding it in real situations.

There are times when it gets confusing.

We will be sharing your thoughts on this topic with Brook, Sex Education Forum, The Met Police, Shout Out UK and NSPCC.

AOTW Questions:

- Should vapes be sold in plain packaging with health warnings, just like cigarettes?
- Are colorful designs and fruity flavoures deliberately targeting young people?
- Why do so many shopkeepers fail to check ID when selling vapes to teenagers?
- Would a complete ban on vapes be more effective than new taxes and regulations?
- How big a role does peer pressure play in making unhealthy choices?
